

Elizabeth Callaghan

Elizabeth was called to the Bar in 1998 but actually began her career in Family Law in 1987 when she commenced employment with North Yorkshire County Council as a Legal Assistant in the Child Care Department. Elizabeth has therefore over 34 years of experience in family law advocacy.

Elizabeth represents a wide range of clients, exclusively in Family Law, including local authorities, parents, grandparents, Guardians and the Official Solicitor. Elizabeth is also regularly instructed on behalf of privately paying clients in private law disputes involving contact, residence, change of surname, change of school and move from the jurisdiction.

Elizabeth is often cited for her reassuring and calm manner with clients and for giving sound and sensible advice. She has gained considerable particular experience in dealing with vulnerable clients, particularly those who are enduring distressing and stressful personal circumstances and have communication difficulties.

In 2016 Elizabeth was awarded the Legal Aid Lawyer of the Year Award having been nominated by the entire team of a local family law legal practice. She was praised by the Chair of the Bar for her “outstanding advocacy, courtesy and compassion”.

During her time at the Bar, Elizabeth has been instructed in extremely complex cases and she has regularly appeared in cases in the County Court and High Court that have included issues of severe sexual abuse, severe physical abuse, fictitious illness, poisoning, death of a child, murder of a parent.

She is regularly praised by the Judiciary for her effective and skilled cross examination techniques and noted by those who instruct her for her strong and forensic presence in court. She is often described as “charming with clients” and “elegant in advocacy”.

Elizabeth is regularly led by Leading Counsel in public law cases that involve significant and complex issues.
